Viviana is a versatile litigator representing clients ranging from emerging businesses to national corporations. Her work spans a variety of industries and involves diverse legal issues from business, complex commercial, and real estate disputes to wrongful termination and discrimination matters. Undaunted by a courtroom, Viviana prosecutes and defends multidistrict litigation (MDLs) and mass tort actions.

Understanding that her clients' business goals are paramount in considering any threatened or active litigation, Viviana implements practical solutions to effectively prevail in matters pending in federal, state, and appellate courts nationwide. She successfully tries bench trials and first-chairs jury trials.

Viviana's expansive practice includes successfully resolving disputes involving allegations of fraud, breach of contract, negligence, breach of fiduciary duty, employment litigation involving anti-discrimination laws, products liability, free speech, consumer finance, false advertising, and real estate disputes.

Clients rely on Viviana's sophisticated guidance from matter inception through resolution. She skillfully drafts and argues substantive motions and counsels clients on liability exposure, methods for mitigating damages, and settlement.
