David Dick Named to Construction Law Power List

Thompson Coburn partner David Dick has been named to the Missouri Lawyers Weekly Power List for Construction Law. The 2023 list highlights practitioners who represent general contractors, subcontractors, material suppliers and property owners with issues ranging from defects in a project's construction to negotiating contracts to enforcing and collecting promised payments.

David is a lead trial lawyer with a track record of success across a diverse array of claims, including various types of construction and real estate disputes, business tort, and significant property damage and personal injury cases. In his construction practice, David's clients include owners, contractors and lenders. He both prosecutes and defends claims such as mechanic's liens, performance bonds, delay damage and more. He also advises on contracts and other business matters.
