

insights

TYPES NOT MAPPED YET September 03, 2024 | TTR not mapped yet | Aaron D. Lacey, Hope A. Watson

The Latest on ED's Financial Value Transparency and Gainful Employment Rule

The U.S. Department of Education continues to release significant guidance relating to its Financial Value Transparency and Gainful Employment rule, including last week's announcement that institutions should "pause reviews of the Completers Lists and use of the FVT/GE Reports." In this 20-minute video, Aaron Lacey and Hope Watson discuss this and other recent guidance and recommend action items for institutions. They cover completers lists, standard and transitional reporting, the upcoming reporting deadlines, and the state of the litigation challenging the new rule. Click below to watch this update, the latest in our new HigherEdReg Rundown series.

Click here for the slide deck.

About REGucation

Welcome to REGucation, the higher education resource that strives, through practical advice and insight, to help the higher education community manage a fast-changing and increasingly complex regulatory environment.

Our goal is to serve as a practical, concise, and accessible resource for institutions confronting regulatory and policy issues. The blog focuses on the extraordinarily broad and sophisticated set of legal challenges faced by contemporary post-secondary institutions, including those involving real estate, construction, joint ventures, litigation, intellectual property, immigration, taxation, financing, employees and benefits, and government relations, to name a few. We also cover the staggering collection of federal, state, and accrediting agency laws and standards specific to higher education.

If there are topics you would like us to cover, or questions you may have regarding a topic that already has been addressed, please do not hesitate to reach out. Finally, if you would like to contribute a guest article, we would love to hear from you.

authorsTest

aaron

Aaron D. Lacey

hope

Hope A. Watson