From corporate counsel to trusted outside legal advisor, my experience helps me guide clients toward achieving their most ambitious goals.

overview

Michael Rosenblum is a versatile attorney with broad experience advising emerging companies and other businesses on corporate, transactional and regulatory matters.

Michael's practice encompasses a variety of corporate matters, including mergers and acquisitions, real estate, and financing transactions. He provides strategic counsel to emerging and high-growth companies, helping them solve problems and achieve goals efficiently.

Michael is co-chair of the firm's cannabis practice and was previously general counsel at STIIIZY, the nation's top-selling cannabis brand. Before joining Thompson Coburn, he served as in-house counsel at Goldman Sachs in New York. From his robust in-house experience, Michael recognizes the importance of providing exceptional legal service, and his clients value his practical, entrepreneurial approach.

Michael's transactional experience is highly regarded, especially in the M&A arena. He has negotiated and closed individual transactions valued in the hundreds of millions and collectively at more than $2 billion. Michael is adept at finding synergies between buyers and sellers and represents both sides. Overall, what he finds most rewarding is working with visionary companies and people who are doing something special in their space.

"Few attorneys can match Michael Rosenblum's caliber of experience in corporate law, particularly in the cannabis space."

in my free time

Raising young twins, coaching children's sports and following the fortunes of the Los Angeles Dodgers keep me busy outside of the office. I have also run several marathons and hope to run more. Other than that, vacationing in Michigan, where I went to college, and enjoying Laguna Beach are family favorites.
