overview

Suzanne Hart handles a variety of environmental matters with a focus on practical solutions and effective communication. She assists with managing environmental risks and liabilities under state and federal environmental laws, including communicating with regulators on issues related to federal environmental laws and state law equivalents.

Suzanne supports clients in all phases of the litigation process, including document review, deposition preparation, expert witness strategy, and post-trial briefings. She also assists with environmental diligence matters in corporate transactions.

In law school, Suzanne was a student attorney for the Small Business & Community Economic Development Clinic at The George Washington University Law School.

in my free time

I am a gardener and spend most of my free time turning my city backyard into an colorful, edible oasis. I especially love learning about all the amazing plants native to Missouri!
