

AGRICULTURE & FOOD – CORPORATE AND SECURITIES

Thompson Coburn is a full-service law firm that represents agriculture and food industry clients in a wide range of business and legal matters. We provide legal services to companies and organizations throughout the food production chain, from genomics to chemical and fertilizer development, to food production, transportation, and the operation of restaurant groups. We help protect our clients — and the significant amount of time and resources they invest in their efforts — as they conduct research, navigate regulatory schemes, and bring their products to the marketplace. Simply put, we are committed to helping our clients protect their businesses, explore opportunities to expand, and become market leaders.
